We do not know the extent or the injuries i flicted upon those women, nor the nature of the provocations. Be the latter as they may, it occurs to us that an assault and battery on a female is considered a matter of little moment, judging from the insignificance of the penalty inflicted A man who even treats his horse with cruelty is liable to a fine of from five to ten dollars; and a poor unfortunate, friendless, penniless, drunkard, picked up in the streets, is sent to the work-house for thirty or ninety days, as a punishment for his indiscretion-not crime.

No matter how degraded may be the condition of a woman, she should be protected from the attacks of any ruffian; but a petty fine of five dollars will not have a restraining influence, as unfortunately there are heartless bipeds who would consider that sum small for the gratification of their bellicose propensities, not having the manly courage to engage in a trial of brute skill with bruisers of their own sex.

Ground and Lofty Tumbling.-The "horse tamer" gave an exhibition, on Thursday, near the Centre Market, of a truly novel character. With the aid of his drum, voice, and peculiar manipulations, he has, it is said, brought many restive animals of the horse kind into gentle behavior. The only regret is that becannot wield a similar influ-and at the tail of it erected an inclined plane with sundry boards, up which he had arranged a heretofore rather ungovernable horse should walk. Seated in front, he held the bridle, and gave an occasional jerk to hurry up the horse-flesh. The animal, accustomed to being between the shafts, was extremely fearful of venturing into the body of the vehicle; but, with much hesitation, he finally reached the elevation. The triumph of the tamer was complete, thus far. The horse, however, alarmed at his high position, trembled, fell over the barriers, which hardly reached to his fetlock joints, his back striking on the ground with much violence. The tamer himself, by this feat, was jerked from his sitting posture, and likewise came in contact with the earth. He sustained far less injury than the horse. The spectators were, of course, astonished.

Our informant came to the conclusion, from what he saw, that, if the bad manners of the horse were not broken, some of the inside machinery was; or, at all events, the fall was heavy and sudden enough to produce such a disastrous ef-

The Inventors' Hall, in the east wing of the Patent Office, will soon be finished. The frescoers are at work, ornamenting the ceiling, (supported by groined arches,) and affording satisfactory evidence of their artistic skill. The imitation mouldings appear to stand out in actual bas-relief, and excite general admiration. This is one of the largest halls in the country. Commodious and beautiful, it is a fit receptacle for the exhibition of the thousands of models of our ingenious countrymen, models of useful inventions and discoveries, many of which confer so many blessings on our age and generation. A passing glance, merely, is bestowed upon them by the visitors to the crowded room where they are now deposited; but while we see and admire the material, who can ous days and sleepless nights, the years of experiments, toils, and trials, the discouragements. and the struggles with poverty to produce the

HAVANA NEWS .- The following interesting items of Cuban news we extract from the Havana correspondence of the Charleston Standard, dated April 7th:

"During the last week of the past month, there were no less than nine white men assassinated, in the streets or public places of this city, and not one of the assassins has been arrested! One of these assassinations took place in a "fonda," or eat-ing house, in the 'Plaza Cristo,' opposite the residence of the bishop, and the unfortunate victim after he was assassinated, was kicked out of the fonds, and left to bleed to death, without any as-sistance being afforded him, whilst no effort was made to arrest the murderer, and he escaped Another case occurred in the Plaza del Vapor, public market, very near to my lodgings. The as public market, very near to my lodgings. The assassin returned twice to the spot, to recover his hat, which had dropped from his head, without any attempt being made to arrest him.

On the night of the 27th ultimo, the following named estates around Bemba, Vuelta Arriba, were destroyed by fire—supposed to be the work of incendiarism. viz: Fecinco Junco, Sandoval, Escorial, Gratitud, Soledad, Tajanero, or Jardin, Felepe Jimenez, San Joaquin, Caunito, and Lombarti. The fire commenced at Gratitud, and spread to the other estates: on the first named seven, of the other estates; on the first named seven, of which the canes, works, and dwellings are totally destroyed, whilst on the three last named, only the canes were consumed by the devouring element. One of these estates, Sandoval, was situated with in three leagues of the town of Matanzas. I was recently upon that estate. The present crop was stimated at from seven to eight thousand boxes sugar, little more than one-fourth of which, within a fortnight, was manufactured."

A Creole gentleman, I understand, recently applied for a passport for himself and son, he being about to place the latter at some college in the United States. The passport was refused, and the gentleman was fined two hundred and fifty dollars for having dared to apply for the passport!

Do you not think such treatment is certain to render the Creoles loyal subjects of the Spanish

The object of this edict is supposed to be the suppression of a witty illustrated weekly publication called "La Danza," and which had satirized and caricatured various acts and personages connected with the present government.

An edict appears in the Gaceta of the 31st ultimo. by which it is ordained in consequence of the diffi-culties in the case of the Black Warrior, that whenever a case respecting duties shall hereafter arise in which a memorial to the supreme governmen shall be paid into the treasury, and there to re main until the answer of the supreme government

The message of the President in Congress, in mitting the documents relative to the Black Warrior aggression, appears to have frightened the Marquis de la Pezuela out of his propriety. The message rendered into really elegant Spanish, you will perceive in the Diario de la Marina of the 31st ult.; appended to it are certain observa tions of which the following is a translation:

Railroad Collision - Locomotive Smashed ap.-We understand that on Thursday evening wo construction trains on the New Albany an salem railroads, the one loaded with gravel and with ties, came into collision in the vicinity of Bedford. The locomotive Orleans was completely wrecked, and the Ladoga very serious-ly damaged. A laborer on the road, named Clark, vas greatly bruised; but, fortunately, no one was langerously injured.

The collision is attributable, altogether to the arelessness of those who had charge of the trains We should suppose that by this time the company would be satisfied with employing men entirely incompetent. But recently we had occasion to notice an accident on the road fatal to two individuals. Now, two engines are smashed up, and several lives placed in imminent jeopardy. The loss, within three day's time, of three locomotives. at a cost of $30,000, should warn the compan against the miserable policy they have adopted of hiring cheap labor.—Louisville Courier, 5th.

The Gold Mines of Nicaragua.-We have received some interesting information from Mr Fabens, our consul at San Juan de Nicaragua, re lative to the extensive gold discoveries in the dis trict of Chontales, on the east shore of Lake Nica trict of Chontales, on the east shore of Lake Nicaragua. The gold district covers an area of sixty square miles, said to be uniformly rich. The quartz in which the vein is found is rotten, and can easily be crushed by hand. Some of the specimens sent to the United States and England for assay resulted years tayorable visible. for assay resulted very tavorably, yielding in some cases as high as $1 50 to the pound. The rivers cases as high as $1.00 to the pound. The rivers had been too high until recently to allow the mines to be conveniently worked, but it is confidently expected miners will be handsomely remunerated during the present dry season. The district of Chontales is now occupied principally by Americans. Mr. Borland, United States minister to Nicaragua, was on a tour of inspection in the min-ing district, and his report upon the subject will

The French in the Pacific.—The French, says the San Francisco Herald, have a powerful fleet in the Pacific at the present time. On the 23d of January last, there lay in the harbor of Papetee, at Tahiti, the French frigate Forte, the corvettes Moselle and Sarcelle, the war steamers Duroc and Catinat, and the war schooners Hydrographic, Nouhiva, Papetee, and Kamehameha. Admiral Febrier-Despointes, commander-in-chief of the French naval forces in the Pacific, had just returned from his filibuster trip against the important group of New Caledonia, of which he had taken possession in the name of the emperor of the French, and which doubtless are to form hereafter part of the fast-spreading French empire in The French in the Pacific. West Troy last night, which, from what we have been able to gather, appears to have been premeditated. The perpetrator of the deed is John H. Phelps, and the victim his wife. It appears that the parties resided in the 2d ward, near the Methodist church; that about two o'clock this morning he came home under the influence of liquor, when he retired to his room. Soon after, the shricks of his wife were heard by the inmates of the building, all of whom were females. They immediately left the room to ascertain the cause of the outery; and on approaching the door, found that it was barred or boited. Finding that they could not gain access, they obtained assistance in could not gain access, they obtained assistance in the neighborhood; and on breaking open the door, a horrid spectacle was exhibited to the view. A female murdered in cold blood by the hands of him who had sworn "to love, honor, and protect," lay upon the floor, and he, the monster in the room, with the bloody weapon in his grasp.

The weapon used was a butcher's knife, with which the murderer inflicted two wounds upon his wife, and which caused almost instant death does not appear that he attempted to make his escape after committing the dead; nor have we been able to learn that there had been any ill-feeling between them. He was arrested, and, after an examination before the justice at West Troy, was brought to this city and committed to jail for

The deceased is represented, by a resident of that place, who knew her before she was married, to have been an amiable woman and a faithful wife, about 35 years of age. He is about 40 years of age, a machinist by trade, and formerly in the employ of Messrs. Corius, Sage & Dunham.

While in jail this morning, we saw the prisoner. He is about five feet six inches in height, thick set, and dark compexion. He appeared reluctant to enter into conversation, and like one who was just getting over a drunken frolic. But he knew what he had been doing, for when he was told that he had got his neck into the halter, he dropped his head and remained looking at the floor for some time.—Albany (N. Y.) On the same day the Russians attempted to cross the Danube at Altenitza, but were repulsed with dreadful carnage. Three thousand. Russians were killed, and the Turks so badly cut up that they were compelled to retire behind their entrenchments. The Russians, however, effected a passage at three points.

The very day that the Russians commenced rossing the Danube, Omer Pasha had intended to attack the Russian head-quarters at Pogana. His plan of battle was drawn, and the entire force put under the command of French Colonel Drew; but the Russian movements disconcerted his plan.

The Russians were abandoning their forts or the east coast of the Black sea. Souchamkale has been burnt and plundered by the Circassians. It was rumored that the Turks were preparing to attack Sebastopol. Admiral Napier's fleet, at last accounts, was again under way. It was supposed he would seize the island of Akland. Kicece Bay was named as his rendezvous. The British minister had telegraphed to Napier the declaration of war with instructions to commence hostilities forthwith. The Russians were making great preparations for hostilities in the Baltic. The whole French army, consisting of 65,000 troops, will be in Turkey by the 1st of May. It is reported that the British land force will be increased to 30,000. The first division of the expeditionary force are being rapidly forwarded from Malta to Constantinople. It is rumored that Lord Aberdeen would re sign, but the London Globe contradicts the report. The London papers are full of proclamations re

Dr. Eastman, who discovered the efficacy of his "remedy," is a physician in this city, in high standing, with a large practice. He is a physician in whom great confidence is placed; and we do not wonder that his remedy for a very common disease, which has been so long needed, has attracted the attention of all sufferers from beadache who have beard of it.
